Eve Curie Labouisse

Mrs. Labouisse, daughter of Pierre and Marie Curie, the discoverers of radium, was born in Paris. She was graduated at the Sévigné College a Bachelor of Science, and later as Bachelor of Philosophy, in both cases with honors. She was an accomplished pianist and gave a number of concerts in Europe.

Later as an author and lecturer, Mrs. Labouisse travelled widely in Europe, North America and elsewhere. In 1942, she was a war correspondent and visited various war fronts, including Libya, Russia, Burma and China. In 1943-44 she was a Lieutenant in the Women's Auxiliary Forces, Free French Army. From 1945 to 1949, she was co-publisher of a French afternoon paper, Paris-Presse. She was Special Adviser to Lord Ismay, Secretary General of NATO, from 1952 to 1954.

Among Mrs. Labouisse's works were the two renowned books: Madame Curie, a biography of her mother, and Journey Among Warriors, an account of her travels to the battlefronts of World War II.

In 1954, she married Henry R. Labouisse and later became an American citizen. She travels extensively with her husband, who is Executive Director of the United Nations Children's Fund.
