Message from Mr. James P. Grant

Executive Director of the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF)

on the occasion of the

Tribute to Mr. Ken Done

New York - 6 November 1992

The almost 13 million children who die each year for want of the most basic needs of food, water, shelter, and medicine, are victims of the adult world's neglect and abuse. The overwhelming majority of these deaths can be prevented at an affordable cost. UNICEF is working every day of the year to build a better world for children.

Ken Done is a person who understands the need for long term commitment to the well being of children throughout the world. He is recognised in your country as a fine Australian and UNICEF is proud to join with you this evening to pay tribute to Ken Done, the Spokesperson of the UNICEF Committee of Australia for the past four years.

I extend our sincere thanks to Ken Done for helping UNICEF to help protect the lives of children and promote their development. I commend him for his energy as an advocate for children's issues and his generosity as a supporter, fundraiser and donor to UNICEF.
